

Murray Mail 40

26 OCTOBER 2018

The red gum industry has been in the spotlight over the past week, after I put forward the Notice of Motion for my Private Member's Bill to restore access to sustainable timber harvesting in the redgum forests by returning the Murray Valley National Park to a State Forest. The Notice of Motion is the first step in this parliamentary process.

Over the weekend I attended the exhibit of cardboard creations by the Monash Uni Architecture Students at Tocumwal as a lead up to the Strawberry Fields Festival (see photo below).

Before heading off to Parliament for the week, I spent a lovely morning on Monday with the Murrumbidgee Lachlan CWA Group at their conference in Hillston. Thanks for the wonderful welcome and hospitality!

Highlights of my week in Parliament have been:

- Hosting Carrathool Mayor Peter Laird whilst meeting with Health Minister Brad Hazzard to address the doctor's shortage. It is so pleasing that Dr Maria Sewell has accepted a position at the Hillston Medical Centre with Dr Kumar.

- Meeting with Primary Industries Minister Niall Blair about Murray Valley Groundwater issues.
- Attending the HCCC Committee meeting which is undertaking the inquiry into cosmetic health service complaints in NSW (as part of my parliamentary role on this committee).
- Hosting Leeton Mayor Paul Maytom and General Manager Jackie Kruger to discuss funding options for proposed projects in the shire with the Deputy Premier's Office and Sports Minister Stuart Ayres. We also caught up with Finance Minister Victor Dominello who gave the good news that the old Water Resources building will be sold to Leeton Sire for $1.

Today I am in Wentworth and have had great pleasure in opening Wentworth Shire Council's Small Business Expo on behalf of the Deputy Premier John Barilaro. The event is part of Small Business Month.

Over the weekend I look forward to attending the NSW SES Leeton Unit for a very important naming ceremony (more details about this in next week's issue).

I will also be attending events for the Taste Coleambally festival. It will be a superb weekend in Coly and I urge you to get along to the events if you can. More details.

Finally, it's a great pleasure to announce that well-known local Julie Jewell has been appointed as the inaugural Electorate Officer in my new Buronga Electorate Office. Julie was selected from a strong field of candidates and will be a great asset to the Murray team.

Kind regards

On Sunday it was great to see the cardboard creations of the Monash Uni Architecture students at Tocumwal. This is a new part of the continuing efforts of the Strawberry Fields Festival to forge closer ties with the local community. The students designed the creations, laser cut them out and then constructed them. The dome was a good lesson - quick and easy enough to design, but then they found out how fiddly their design was when they had to put it together!

Good news for Leeton Shire with Finance Minister Victor Dominello notifying Mayor Paul Maytom and General Manager Jackie Kruger in person at Parliament House that the old Water Resources building will be sold to Council for $1. Great outcome that we have been chasing for a while.

Notice of Motion to restore access to timber resources in red gum forests

The Notice of Motion is the first step in putting forward a Private Member's Bill to return the Murray Valley National Park to State Forest and restore access to timber resources in the redgum forests for sustainable timber harvesting.

This issue was particularly important to me and has been one of my highest priorities.

Murray tradies set to save big bucks under licensing reforms

Around 180 tradies in Murray will save approximately $340,000 over 10 years by not having to renew their licenses every three years, as part of the NSW Government's Better Business Reforms. This follows extensive public consultation, which also showed significant support for retaining 13 home building licenses.

This is a fantastic outcome for consumers and our local tradies, because it maintains important protections, while also reducing costs.
